Situated right on the equator, the climate is tropical with a long wet season, and the islands were once entirely covered in rainforest. On the plus side, the rich volcanic soil, long growing season, and plentiful rain made the islands suitable for growing many important foodstuffs like sugar cane during colonization. On the downside, tropical diseases, particularly ...

Railways in the roças: History: The plantations (roças) comprised the main plant (sede), which had the cocoa, coffee, palm oil and copra processing facilities, workers housing, an administrative building and the plantation manager's house, as well as smaller dependencies (dependencies). Those plantations near the sea had their own facilities to load the crops into ...
